

ABDUL REHMAN

Your Voice. Your Future. Stronger Kingston.

Hi, I'm Abdul Rehman, a final-year Aerospace Engineering student and proud international student at Kingston University. I understand the academic pressure, financial challenges, and career uncertainty many students face. I'm standing for President to strengthen student representation, improve career opportunities, and ensure every student feels heard, supported, and valued.

Academic Excellence & Career Opportunities

I will improve academic support and career readiness across all faculties. Students often face unclear feedback, inconsistent marking, and limited industry exposure. I will work with faculties to push for clearer assessment criteria, faster feedback turnaround, and improved communication between students and lecturers. I will also expand networking events, employer partnerships, and internship opportunities so students graduate with real-world experience. A Kingston degree should open doors — and I will work to make sure it does.

Stronger Support for International & Home Students

As an international student, I understand the challenges of adapting to a new academic system, managing visa responsibilities, and dealing with financial pressure. I will push for clearer guidance, better communication, and stronger support services for international students. At the same time, I will campaign for cost-of-living support initiatives, wellbeing improvements, and more inclusive events so every student — regardless of background — feels part of one Kingston community.

Transparency, Accountability & Student Voice

Students deserve leadership that listens and acts. I will introduce regular open forums, transparent updates on decisions, and clearer communication from the Students' Union. I will actively engage with course reps, societies, and student groups to ensure concerns are addressed quickly and effectively. Your vote should lead to real action — not empty promises.

Kingston students deserve better academic support, stronger career opportunities, and leadership that truly listens. My manifesto focuses on employability, inclusivity, and transparency — delivering practical change that benefits every student. I am ready to represent you with professionalism, determination, and accountability.
