

UKAMAKA ESOMCHI

Together, we can shape a better Kingston experience.

My name is Ukamaka Mercy Esomchi, the course representative of the postgraduate program in Environmental Management (Energy) at the Penrhyn Campus, Kingston University and also the student representative of the EMS steering group Kingston University. I got nominated to be a student trustee and that trust has made me stand for the position. I'm standing to be your Student Trustee because I believe every Kingston student deserves to feel heard, supported, and empowered. As a Course Representative for Environmental Management (Energy), I've worked closely with students and staff to improve communication, address concerns, and push for positive change. This experience has taught me how important transparency, accountability, and collaboration are in shaping decisions that affect us all.

If elected, I will champion student wellbeing, especially international students, advocate for fair and accessible services, and amplify the voices of under-represented groups.
